Clarity How clear your image is and how easily I can interpret it.	Perfectly Clear. No difficulty understanding your concepts and can tell at a glance what is happening.	Mostly clear. You may have one or two areas that are not clear or maybe were difficult to interpret.	Somewhat clear. If I take a few extra moments I can interpret your image, but there is some guess work. Requires prior knowledge.	Not clear. Difficult to interpret at all. Mostly guessing at your idea. Even with prior knowledge, it is difficult.	Unintelligible. I cannot tell what you are trying to do and cannot read your diagram.
Used Class Key How closely you used the key we designed in class as the standard.	Exactly. You used the key exactly as described and have fit the standard perfectly.	Very Close. I can easily see the resemblance, but maybe you left out a key point or two.	Sort of. You used a key concept or two from the key, but then diverged to your own method.	Hardly. It looks as though you went your own direction. I can only see at best one key concept and the rest is something else.	Not at all. Yours is completely different from the key, leading to difficulty interpreting your diagram.
Neat How orderly your diagram is.	Perfect. You stayed very neat and orderly.	Very Neat. You kept everything fairly orderly, but there are some small errors.	Kind of neat. You have some order to your image but it is a little chaotic to look at.	Not very. This is an image of ordered chaos. I'm struggling to see any flow.	Not at all. A random assortment of images is thrown on the page.
Timely Did you finish on time?	Perfect. You were done before you got to school today.	Needs work. You had most of it complete, but you were working on it during school hours the day of.	Problem. You had some done on the day of, but were finishing right up until the class period.	Extreme error. You had only partially complete and were having to work on it in the class period in order to turn it in.	Wrong. You had little or nothing to turn in. What you did have was done today at school.
