Name That Metal! Post-Lab Questions

Answer the following questions:

1. Apart from calculating density, what other method could be used to determine the identity of a metal?

2. Did you find any inconsistent results or variability among your measurements? What might be the cause these errors?

3. What, if any, measurements could you make if a mystery object was liquid?